DICK HART

THE COURSE OF MODERN JEWISH HISTORY

Howard M. Sachar

'The author has caught that national pride, and the mood of elation and enthusiasm which the restoration of the Jewish State has inspired. At the same time, he has absorbed an amazing amount of detailed information about the European and American Jewish communities, and he has the gift of weaving it into a vivid tapestry.'

—Times Literary Supplement

'It is written with balance and judgement, it is amazingly comprehensive.'—Jewish Chronicle

'Dr. Sachar, in a most energetic work of American scholarship, has documented his chronicle with an array of factual detail, of Jewish references to names, places and events, which should certainly make The Course of Modern Jewish History the most comprehensive work of its kind.'—Daily Telegraph

'This remarkable first achievement of a thirty-one-year-old genuine historian points the way to what Zionist history should be . . . The account of the advance of European enlightenment and its penetration into the ghetto darkness, is a brilliant, ably written study of this development.'
